

Curse @cursedsalad

30 Nov 19 • 9 tweets • cursedsalad/status/1200792050544676864

The Terror-Famine engineered by Judeo-Bolshevik, Lazar Moiseyevich Kaganovich, claimed over 10 million lives in 1932. Many news reporters were complicit in covering up the scope of this genocide or outright denying it.

Walter Duranty, a Communist apologist, had several stories published by the Jewish-owned NY Times refuting the Holodomor. He claimed the Holodomor was Nazi propaganda and infamously wrote, "there is no actual starvation."

The Jewish-owned New York Times failed to mention that Duranty agreed to be an unofficial spokesman for the Judeo-Bolsheviks. Nevertheless, the NY Times submitted his articles for a Pulitzer. He won.

Btw, Hungarian Jew Joseph Pulitzer was the father of Yellow "Journalism."

Chapter 6

famine and the situation in Ukraine which were laughably wrong. There is no doubt whatever that the authorities could manipulate him.<sup>104</sup>

Why did Duranty alter his reporting with each shift in Soviet policy? Duranty's own words make it clear that he considered himself a virtual public relations man for the Soviets. In 1931 on one of his trips outside the Soviet Union, Duranty had a conversation with A. W. Kliefoth of the American Embassy in Berlin. The memorandum of this conversation states, "Duranty pointed out that, 'in agreement with the New York Times and the Soviet authorities,' his official dispatches always reflect the official opinion of the Soviet regime and not his own."<sup>105</sup> No such disclaimer ever appeared in the Times.

News • November 20, 2003

Statement on Walter Duranty's 1932 Prize

Share: TWITTER FACEBOOK EMAIL

After more than six months of study and deliberation, the Pulitzer Prize Board has decided it will not revoke the foreign reporting prize awarded in 1932 to Walter Duranty of The New York Times.

In recent months, much attention has been paid to Mr. Duranty's dispatches regarding the famine in the Soviet Union in 1932-1933, which have been criticized as gravely defective. However, a Pulitzer Prize for reporting is awarded not for the author's body of work or for the author's character but for the specific pieces entered in the competition. Therefore, the board focused its attention on the 13 articles that actually won the prize, articles written and published during 1931. [A complete list of the articles, with dates and headlines, is below.]

Incidentally, Duranty was an avowed homosexual and had a lengthy relationship with drug-addled, satanic Kabbalist, Aleister Crowley. The two men also shared a woman - a Jewish opium addict named Jane Chéron - whom Duranty would later marry.

Born to a wealthy family in Liverpool, England on May 25, 1884, Walter Duranty attended both Emmanuel College and Cambridge University. In his mid-to-late twenties, he befriended Aleister Crowley, an Englishman nine years his senior, who was an occultist, a practitioner of satanic magic, and the self-identified anti-Christ. Duranty was quickly drawn in to Crowley's bizarre practices, some of which included homosexual interactions. "It was under [Crowley's] guidance," says historian Ronald Radosh, "that the homely Duranty, for some reason always a charmer to women, began a series of menages a trois that became a regular part of his life."

Another member of the "free press" who intentionally deceived Americans about the Holodomor genocide was Jewish journalist, Louis Fischer. Fischer's sympathy for his tribe led him to lie about the crimes of the Judeo-Bolshevik regime. Of course, he wasn't penalized for his lies.

F

Another Soviet stooge was The Nation's Louis Fischer. An avowed Communist, Fischer dutifully parroted the regime's talking points. Speaking to a college audience in Oakland, California, in the middle of the famine, Fischer said emphatically, "There is no starvation in Russia."

Eugene Lyons was yet another Jewish Communist who, moonlighting under the title "journalist," betrayed and lied to the American public about the atrocities the Bolsheviks were visiting upon millions of women and children.

Ironically, Lyons himself had played a role in concealing the 1932-33 terror famine in Ukraine when he denounced British journalist Gareth Jones as a liar for his initial reports of the famine. Jones had published the first significant reports of the massive famine in the Manchester Guardian, only to have the veracity of his reporting denounced by Lyons, Duranty, and others in the Moscow press corps. Lyons later

Joshua Kunitz, who penned countless articles about Jewish welfare around the globe, was another pro-Communist Jew who attempted to cover up humanitarian crimes Lazar Kaganovich and his co-ethnics were committing.

PERCEPTUAL BIAS

Leaders of “enlightened” public opinion in this country tended to believe the official Duranty, debunker of scare stories, rather than those whose veracity his private conversations confirmed. For example, writing in the New Republic, Joshua Kunitz, quoting Stalin almost verbatim, put the blame not on collectivization but on “the lack of revolutionary vigilance” against “kulaks” who had not yet been liquidated and the “selfishness, dishonesty, laziness, and irresponsibility” of the peasants.<sup>52</sup>

There can be little doubt that American journalists collaborated with the Soviets in covering up the famine. Duranty, who privately admitted his role as a semiofficial Soviet spokesman as early as 1931 and who after the famine told British diplomats that as many as 10

50. Ibid., 189.

51. Walter Duranty, Stalin and Co.: The Politburo—The Men Who Run Russia (New York: Sloane, 1949), 78.

52. New Republic, May 10, 1933, 360. Compare with Stalin’s January 11, 1933, joint plenum speech, in which he blamed the difficulties in carrying out the procurements on two things: kulaks who had managed to enter the collective farms and were undermining them from within, and the alleged laxity of party officials who were allowing the collective farmers to set up “all kinds of reserves,” who had not realized that the collective farmer was still at heart a petty bourgeois and that the collective farms themselves were full of hidden class enemies. I. V. Stalin, Sochinenia (Moscow: Gosizdat, 1946–1952), 13:216–233.

These lies, along with coercion from Franklin Roosevelt’s Judeo-Bolshevik advisors, are what led to the US recognizing Bolshevik Russia as a state only months after they engineered a genocide.

Curse
@cursedssalad

1. Jewish Bolsheviks engineered a genocidal famine from 1932 to 1933 called the Holodomor. Ten million people died. Despite this, the US officially recognized Russia as a state just months later in 1933. Why? Jews.

604 1:25 AM - Apr 23, 2019

377 people are talking about this

On this Holodomor Remembrance Day, ask yourself why the Holocaust has received so much more attention than the Holodomor despite having fewer casualties. Ask yourself why the Judeo-Bolsheviks didn't face a Nuremberg-style show trial for their crimes. #TerrorFamine

...